

Your Health Center

(This is the first of a series of articles on the Newton D. Baker Health Center and its services)

On October 18, 1949, Governor Frank J. Lausche dedicated the Newton D. Baker Health Center to the service of the people. This health center is housed in a beautiful, new, modern building on East 55 Street between St. Clair and Superior Avenues and serves the area bounded on the north by the lake on the west by the Cuyahoga River, on the south by Euclid Avenue, and on the east by 73 Street at St. Clair Avenue, East 79 Street at Superior Avenue and East 105 Street at Euclid Avenue.

It is one of the seven health centers operated by Cleveland Division of Health to bring health services as close to the home as possible. The chief purpose of the Health Center is to keep the family well and teach ways of preventing disease.

Its clinics are for the most part diagnostic—cases requiring treatment are referred to the private physicians or, if such services are not obtainable, to hospital outpatient departments.

The Health Center is also headquarters for public health nurses who serve the community in the clinic, the home and in the school.

More about your health center and its services next week.

CLEVELAND INDIANS NEWS

"It'll be Cleveland, Boston, Detroit and New York in that order in 1950." That was Indian manager Lou Boudreau's calm, if surprising, appraisal of the pennant race for which he was grooming a squad of 36 hopefuls in Cleveland's spring training camp at Tucson, Arizona.

"To begin with," he reasoned, "we had the best club in the American League defensively in 1949. We also had the best pitching staff in either league, yet finished eight games back because we didn't make enough runs.

"I see no reason why our pitching shouldn't be even better this summer," he continued, "and our defense at least as it was. What we need is a more powerful attack and from what I've seen so far, we'll have it."

With Boudreau back in shape and a power hitter like Easter in the lineup it would be safe to assume that part of the pressure might be lifted from some of the others. Prominent in this classification is Larry Doby who had to go it alone in 1949 despite the fact that he was just 24 years old and in only his second year in professional baseball.

Now more experienced and with some of the pressure off, Doby could easily improve on a performance which was good enough to lead the Indians in virtually everything except batting average.

No, Boudreau wasn't day-dreaming when he picked the Indians to win. They might even do it by a comfortable margin.

with the huge success of the first annual boxing show held at the Slovene National Home by the Ambassadors last year.

The proposed boxing program promises to be an outstanding attraction to local slug bugs and endeavors to inspire pugilistic ambitions among the youthful athletes in the neighborhood. It may recall memories of local stars of the past, such as Eddie and Frankie Simms, Bill Skully, Johnny Mordus, Billy and Mickey Burns and Bill Hocevar; all of whom acquired success via the amateur boxing route.

The Ambassadors would like to hear some comments from you fight fans. Please address your mail to the Cleveland Ambassadors of Sports Inc., 6521 Bonna Ave.

Truman recently stated, "Many times a year the American people turn to the Red Cross. Once a year the Red Cross turns to the people."
