

Gay Knights To Feature Continuous Music at Pre-Autumn Dance

Tonite is the nite for a Gay Nite with the Gay Knights! The place is your favorite rendezvous — The Slovenian Home, St. Clair Ave. and E. 65th St. The directors of the Home have treated you to a newly decorated dance hall. We will try to keep in step with the mode by presenting a dance with a few ideas new to the Home dancers.

Continuous music will be made possible by Joe Kauchnik's Orchestra and Johnny Richards' Ambassadors. Joe has enlarged his popular trio to a five-piece orchestra. Each orchestra will play one-half hour intervals. With an undertaking of this sort, confusion is bound to arise. To eliminate this, a dance program is our solution. Each orchestra will have a musician's easel upon which will be placed their half-hour selections. They will play three sets (three songs to a set) during their time on the stage. Since each set will be posted and numbered on the easel, there will not be any need to wait until the orchestra begins to play to find out whether or not it is a polka or a fox-trot.

We are hoping to have a loudspeaker in the Annex so they will know exactly what is going on in the hall. While taking a brief leave in the Annex, even at dances which had intermissions, we have and probably you, too, missed numbers simply because we couldn't hear what was being played in the auditorium.

Now that you have had that cooling drink, let us return to the dance hall. Did you too get lost in a stag line? Next year may be a leap year, but this is still a man's year. It is for them that we will have two robber's dances. Here is your chance men — and if you're still not dancing after this — just follow the narrow corridor to cool refreshments. Remember girls, there is no objection to your partaking in the spirit of the robber's dance.

Yes, this evening is the one you will be able to dance the entire nite without one break for intermission. Continuous music will begin at 8:00 p.m. You'll be there — won't you?

Employment News

Starting Sept. 8th, continued claims under both the federal readjustment act and state law will again be filed in the Cleveland Office of the Bureau of Unemployment, Compensation weekly instead of every two weeks. The resumption of weekly reporting, discontinued in February as the result of a drastic cut in administrative funds, is now possible because of decline of the claims load in Ohio from a weekly average of 77,000 in January to a July average of 57,000.

The resumption of weekly reporting also means that claimants will receive their benefit checks weekly after September 8 instead of bi-weekly as they did during the emergency period since February, said B. C. Seiple, manager of the Cleveland office of the B.U.C. The local office will commence rescheduling all claimants as they report next week, so that by the second week in September all claimants will be reporting weekly.

Claimants who file for state or federal unemployment benefits must register for employment with the Ohio State Employment Service, a division of the Bureau of Unemployment Compensation. The Cleveland Office of the B.U.C. is located at 1242 West Third St. Ohio State Employment Service offices are at 1242 West Third St. and 747 Euclid Ave.

WAC Enlistments

Former WAC's desiring to reenlist in the Women's Army Corps must do so before September 30, 1947. Major G. D. Mauck of the U. S. Army and Air Force Recruiting Station said today. The date is set in anticipation of the termination of the Women's Army Corps and its integration in the Regular Army as provided in legislation now pending before Congress.

The WAC re-entry program was initiated February 11, 1946. The program which allows honorably discharged women with a needed skill to re-enter the service, brought more than 2100 WAC's back. About one-third of this group is now serving with the Occupation Forces in Germany and Japan.

The U. S. Army and Air Forces Recruiting Station, 109 Federal Building has full details of the program and will process all applications speedily. Among the military skills on the critical list are laboratory technicians, medical technicians, X-Ray technicians, cooks, stenographers and clerk typists.

Gasoline in Cakes

Jean Patus-Labour, French inventor, left La Guardia Airport for Paris after two months in the United States in connection with his method for solidifying gasoline. Mr. Patus-Labour said his process makes it possible to use gasoline in blocks which are non-inflammable. This would be of advantage to airplanes, he said. He added that though his invention had not been perfected before World War II, both Germany and Japan made offers for it. He said he hopes to have it finished soon.

Flights of Fancy

He lives at the top of his voice. He picked words so softly one could almost hear the dictionary purr. They live in a beautiful little apartment overlooking the rent. As fitting as a grandfather clock in a quonset hut. He felt as if he had swallowed a sunset. Lake Mead, at Boulder Dam, is the largest artificial lake in the world. A frog doesn't drink water; it absorbs it.

The newspaper publisher in a small Vermont village had many unique methods of stirring up reader interest in his weekly newspaper. One trick was to misspell words. Recently a local subscriber burst into the publisher's office and scornfully exclaimed: "You've done it, Sam. I've counted 18 mistakes." "Tut, tut," replied Sam calmly, "Try it again—there are twenty-five!"

Fu Lung, who had just opened a laundry on one corner, gazed appreciatively at the signs on the business establishments on the other three corners. On the bakery was a sign, reading: "We never close." Over the garage, the sign read: "We stay open all night"; and over the restaurant: "We never sleep." The following morning over Fu Lung's laundry appeared the neat handprinted sign: "Me Wake Too."

A certain lazy individual in Holyoke, Mass., was driven by hunger to seek a job. He wandered over to Worcester, where he found a group of men digging for the foundation of a new building. "Can I work here?" he asked the foreman.

"Sure," was the reply. "Help yourself to a shovel."

At the close of the day's work one of the men said to the foreman, "I don't seem to recognize you—where do you live?"

"I live in Holyoke," croaked the aired, entirely-spent gentleman. "Very commendable, very commendable!" rejoined the other. "What do you mean?"

"Why you, a Holyoke man, coming over to help us," was the reply. "All of us are Worcester men giving a day's work free to help build the new Presbyterian church."

"Miss Jones," said the science professor, "would you care to tell the class what happens when a body is immersed in water?" "Sure," said Miss Jones. "The telephone rings."

A taxi driver, whose fixed fare is thirty cents for the trip from the Mayflower Hotel in Washington to the Navy Department Building, received just that amount from a prosperous looking customer. "That's correct, isn't it?" the man asked as the cabbie stared at the three dimes.

"It's correct," answered the cabbie, "but it ain't right."

Man (at police station): "Could I see the burglar who broke into our house last night?" Sergeant: "Why do you want to see him?" Man: "I'd like to ask him how he got in without waking my wife."

"Mary is engaged to an electrical engineer." "Well, more power to her."

"What's drawing such a crowd to Johnson's store?" "He advertised to present each customer with a cigar lighter and coat hanger."

"Did he really do it?" "Sure—a match and a nail." A chaplain was attending a banquet marking the end of basic training. A clumsy KP dropped a plate of hot soup in his lap. Glancing around he said with restraint written on his face, "Will some layman please say something appropriate?" Discouraged by a laundry that kept sending his clothes back so shrunk out of shape he couldn't get into them, a customer finally got mad and sent them a large railroad spike. To it he wired a note saying, "I'll bet you can't shrink this." Eventually the laundry returned to him a small bundle. In it was a carpet tack with a note saying: "The heck we cant."
