Cvetje in trnje

STARODAVNI MUHOBOR

(Nadaljevanje)

Hedervary jo je bil že pred njim na lastno odgovornost pobrisal noter in z nosom ob tleh uživajočo preraznovrstne dišave gostilniških tal, se izgubil po ovinkih v kuhinjo.

Odprl je gospod Krunoslav vrata v gostilno, postal je na pragu in glas mu je razodeval bolesten očitek, ko je izpregovoril: "Gospodična Slavica, nemojte čitati v temi! V temi čitati je zelo kvarno za oči. Meni je to povedal neki doktor, jaz to vem. Vi si pokvarite oči, ako čitate v temi. Nemojte čitati v temi!"

"Oh," je odgovorila Slavica, "saj se še dobro vidi."

Gospod Krunoslav je zaprl duri, približal se je in ponovil svoj skrbni opozor: "Gospodična Slavica, nemojte! Prosim vas, kakor se Bog prosi: Nemojte čitati! Meni na ljubo ne!"

"Izborno še vidim," je dražila Slavica Krunoslava, "glejte, kako gladko še berem!"

Drsala je s prstom čez list in hitela brati: "Zenična ponudba. Mlad inteligenčen trgovec v prijaznem kraju na Dolenjskem..."

Gospodu Krunoslavu je postal čudno pri srcu. Sklonil se je gospodični Slavici čez ramo in pogledal v list. Tačas se je pa zgodilo, da je Slavica hitro pokrila zenično ponudbo z roko; rekla: "E!"—kakor bi trenil, obrnila svoje lice proti gospodu

Krunoslavu in s svojima ustnoma se doteknila njegovih, skratka—ga poljubila.

Vsaj gospod Krunoslav je do trda prepričan, da se je reč prav tako zgodila in nič drugače.

Seveda čudno je in čudno se je videlo tudi gospodu Krunoslavu, da je koj po tem višku naklonjenosti gospodična Slavica kakor ljuta kača skočila pokonci, z roko udarila gospoda Krunoslava v lice, vzkliznila, pa ne preveč na glas: "Nesramnost!" in potem pričela ihteti: "Kako si upate kaj takega, kaj pa mislite od mene!"

Krunoslav Batič je bil ves zbeگان. Na eni strani nič kriv in klofutan, na drugi strani sam v temi z ihtečo deklico—ako kdo pride, kaj si bo mislil! Zdelo se mu je najnujnejše, da gre.

"Gospodična, ako je tako, onda z bogom!" je rekel z razaljnim glasom in iskal v temi svoj klohub.

Slavica si je obrisala oči in zahtela še dvakrat skozi nos, potem si je nesla stol sredi sobe pod svetilko, zlezla je na stol, snela cilindar s petrolejke in nejevoljo vzkliznila: "Ah!"

Krunoslav Batič, razdrapanega srca se obotavljajoč pri durih, je vprašal: "Ali kaj želite?" in je bil še vedno užaljen.

Slavica je zamrmrala: "Vzgalice! Pa saj grem že sama ponje—" in je čakala, da ji jih prinesel Krunoslav.

Nažgala sta luč in ko je Slavica stopila s stola, je resno pogledala Batiča v oči in rekla: "Jezna sem na vas!"

Krunoslav je odgovoril: "Oprostite, gospodična, jaz—" Ona pa je ponovila: "Jezna!"—Sla je v kot k imenitni mizi, pometla drobtine s prta, vzdihnila in potem vprašala: "Kaj pa boste pili? Pivo je sveže."

In gospod Krunoslav je obe sil klobuk in palico na kljuko, naročil vrček piva in sedel na svoj stari prostor.

Slavica mu je prinesla pivo. Potegnil je pošten požirek, obliznil si pene z brk in se odhrnil in ko ga je potem Slavica prijazno, da si resno vprašala, ali ni dobro, je bilo zopet vse v redu.

"Fino," je rekel in se doteknil njene roke, ki mu je ni odtegnila, "fino! Bogami, lansko poletje sem bil na orožnih vajah v Slavoniji, bogami, če bi imel tam tako pivo! Pa ga ni bilo dobiti, makar da ste forint ponudili za vrček. Da je bil tam človek in je imel tako pivo na prodaj, ta bi bil delal kupčije: v treh mesecih bi bil bogat in bi si lahko stavil hišo.—Pa zakaj ne sedete, gospodična Slavica? Tako prosim lepo!—Da pivo, fino je in lepo izgleda. Znete, jaz pijem pivo najrajši iz takih nizkih gladkih vrčkov, iz drugih mi ne diši tako. Moj otec je takisto vedno pil le iz takih vrčkov—bogami, kako je bil srdit, ako se mu je doneslo pivo v drugačnem vrčku—in moj svak takisto kakor jaz. Lahko rečem, vsa naša obitelj pije iz takih vrčkov. Ali ni to čudno? Onda, ako pride na prisego—moj starejši brat, zgolj on ni pil iz takovih vrčkov; toda ta brat je umrl! Kar nas je pa živih od naše obitelji—vsi samo iz takih vrčkov!"

Nursing Skills

Dr. Harold J. Knapp, Commissioner of Health, said today that one way homemakers can acquire better health protection for their families is to join a class in Red Cross Home Nursing.

This 12 hour course prepares you to cope with illness in the family by teaching the basic skills used in caring for the sick. You will learn what to do when sickness occurs, what to do before the doctor comes, how to give simple treatments ordered by the doctor and how to make the patient comfortable. You will also learn how to keep your family in good health and how to protect it against communicable disease.

The course is given under the supervision of an American Red Cross Nurse-instructor. Each member of the class gets an opportunity to practice the skills which the instructor demonstrates.

The Red Cross is now organizing a class at the Newton D. Baker Health Center at 1465 E. 55th Street. Be prepared. Sign up for class now. Ask your friends or club to sign up with you. For further information, call the Red Cross, SU 1-1800.

Civil Defense Advice

The only real difference between an ordinary bomb and an atomic bomb, aside from the fact that the latter has tremendous explosive power, is the accompanying radiation. This radiation can be divided into two types.

The first is the radiation associated with the actual instantaneous detonation of the A-bomb.

The second type is called residual radiation, or radioactivity which is produced after the bomb has exploded.

The forms of radiation included in residual radioactivity are gamma rays which are similar to X-rays but have more energy and have the ability to penetrate dense materials such as concrete and lead.

Two other nuclear particles, alpha and beta particles, are also present. These don't contribute much of a hazard as external sources of radiation because they lack the ability to penetrate dense materials and can travel only short distances in air.

These latter two, however, become hazards where there is the possibility that the radioactive dusts are inhaled, ingested, or absorbed through wounds.

In order to determine the presence of radioactivity, detecting equipment such as a Geiger counter must be used. These instruments are sensitive to all forms of radiation and are designed to determine not only the presence of radioactivity but also the quantity at any one place.

Geiger counters for this type of work are portable and can be carried easily by one individual. Some of them can be strapped to an individual's back and the detection instrument used like mine detector squads used their equipment during World War II. This equipment can also be attached to motor vehicles.

We have cash buyers for your property. Singles, 2 families, apartments and commercial buildings.

Charles Kullman Met Tenor in Pop Concert

Eight outstanding figures in the world of music have been named as soloists for the second half of the current pop concert season, which are presented in Cleveland Public Auditorium by the Cleveland Summer Orchestra, under the baton of Dr. Rudolph Ringwall, associate conductor of the winter orchestra.

First of the newly-announced artists is Charles Kullman, leading tenor of the Metropolitan Opera Company, who will appear this Saturday evening (July 14). Star of opera, concert and screen, Kullman is one of the most popular figures in the international world of music. His start began when he joined the Glee Club of Yale University. Later he studied at the Juilliard School of Music in New York and at the American Conservatory in Fontainebleau, France.

The Saturday evening program has been designated "A Night at the Opera" and will consist of works by Wagner, Verdi, Puccini, Mascagni, Bizet, Massenet, Herbert, Goldmark and Nimsky-Korsakoff.

Alex Templeton, pianist-humorist star of radio and the concert stage will be starred on July 19. This concert will fall on a Thursday night instead of the traditional Wednesday evening because of previous Public Auditorium commitments.
