NEMIRNO—KRVAVO SREDOZEMLJE

Kotlina Sredozemskega morja se imenuje in tudi je zibelka zapadne kulture in civilizacije.

Sredozemske morje je znano tudi nam Slovincem. To morje, ta kotlina ima svoje pododelke morja, ki nosijo posebno ime kot na primer Jadransko morje.

Ce trdimo, da je bila ta kotlina z deželami okrog sebe zibelka naše današnje kulture in civilizacije.

Da ne sežemo predaleč, naj omenimo kratke krize, ki so se pojavile ravno radi interesov na Sredozemlju.

Kriza je bila na primer v Egiptu, kjer so bile britanske čete, da varujejo pot iz Sredozemlja kja proti vzhodu v morja, ki oblikujejo južnoazijsko obalo.

Palestina je znana predvsem po mestu Jeruzalemu. Včasih so bile vojne, ki so imele verski pečat, pa je šlo za mesto Jeruzalem, kda go bo imel.

V Severni Afriki zaključeno s kraji južno od Gibraltarja gre v teh dneh za pravo tragedijo človeške zgodovine.

Urednikova pošta

Glas iz Californije

FONTANA, Calif. — Odkar je bil priobčen moj zadnji dopis v Enakopravnosti, sem dobila iz Clevelanda, Ohio, več pismom od mojih fananov iz Ajdovca, ki pišejo, da bi me radi videli na sliki.

Frances Lukanich

Veliko čitateljev me vprašuje, da bi bolj natanko opisala mesto Fontana, ki je nekaka slovenska metropola v Californiji.

Tukaj je suho podnebje, polti pride od 90 do 95 stopinj vročine čez dan, a noči so hladne in je temperatura od 50 do 55 stopinj.

Mesto Fontana raste v takem hitrem tempu, da bo imelo do leta 1960 60 tisoč prebivalcev.

Tukaj je Fontana je tudi še precej manjših industrij in veliko se jih peča s kokošjerejo, pomarančami, limonami in grapefruit.

Za stare ljudi je tukaj prav dobro, ako imajo nekaj prihrankov in penzijo.

Ko sva bila z možem še v Chisholmu, Minn., nisem mogla iti celo zimo iz hiše, ker tisti mrzli zrak mi ni dal dihati.

To sem napisala, da bodo naši prijatelji vedeli kako je tukaj in upam, da sem s tem ustregla vsem, ki so me v pismih vprašali o tem, kot tudi čitateljem v splošnem.

Frances Lukanich.

Maškare v Euclidu

EUCLID, Ohio — Hladna jesen je že v deželi. Listje po drevetju rumeni in odpada. Ptice selivke se že zbirajo, da odletijo v toplejše kraje.

Vabljeni ste, da pridete na veselico v maškerah. Pridite zgodaj. Čeprav niste član kluba, ste prijazno vabljeni in dobrodošli.

Ker je nedelja, 16. oktobra še zgodaj za maškare, vas že vnaprej opozarjamo, da si pripravite vaše kostume in da ne boste imeli izgovor, da niste bili pripravljeni ker niste vnaprej vedeli o veselici.

Vljudno vabim vse člane in prijatelje kluba Ljubljana, da se udeležite naše veselice v obilnem številu, saj veste, da pri našem klubu je zmeraj lušno.

Landy—zadoščeno!

Eugene Landy je dovršil trgovsko akademijo ameriške mornarice. Bilo je to dne 5. avgusta. Landy je bil star 21 let in bi moral iti v službo pri vojaški mornarici, pa ga niso sprejeli, ker da je imel v življenju "sumljive zveze."

Kakšne so bile te sumljive zveze? Njegova mati je pripadala ameriški komunistični stranki v času, ko je Landy ravel od 3. do 14. leta. Mati je bila tudi naročnica glasila ameriške komunistične stranke "Daily Worker."

Zaupajmo cepivu Salka!

Na clevelandskih šolah ponovno začnejo s cepivom zdravnika Salka zoper polio dne 31. oktobra.

Mestna bolnica v Clevelandu je izdala poročilo o stanju polia v letošnjem letu. V to bolnico je bilo letno sprejetih 216 bolnikov obolelih na poliu, lansko leto ob istem času pa 399. Vsekakor sprememba na dobro!

Osrednja zdravstvena oblast v Columbusu, O., je izdala na ohjsko javnost, tudi na starše poziv, naj zaupajo novemu cepivu zoper polio.

Dovolj mesa in hrane!

V Chicagu ima svoj občni zbor zveza urednikov gospodarskih listov, ki se pečajo v glavnem z vprašanjem hrane.

Mesa bo dovolj, tudi v letu 1956. Na trg bo prihajalo meso vedno boljše kvalitete.

Industrija živil dalje napoveduje, da bo imela ameriška gospodinja vedno manj opravka s pripravljanjem živil, ker ji bo v kuhinjo prišlo vse, kakor pripravljeno za krožnik.

IVAN S. TURGENJEV PUNIN IN BABURIN

(Povest Pjoira Petroviča B.)

In tako dalje, in tako dalje, in tako dalje!!!
Moj govor je trajal kake četrte ure. Tarhov je skozi molčal. Na molk me je začel begati. Kdaj pa kdaj sem pogledal nanj, nehalno za to, da bi se prepričal o vsaki stvari, ki so ga napravljale moje besede, kolikor za to, da bi sprevidel, zakaj neki ne ugovarja in se ne strinja, marveč sedi kakor mucek. Navsezadnje pa se mi je zazdelo, da njegov obraz doživlja spremembo. Začel je izražati nezadovoljstvo, zaskrbljenost, tesnobo za strahobrenost... Toda čudna reč! Tisto oživljeno, svetlo, smejoče se nekaj, tisto, kar me je presestalo precej ob prvem pogledu na Tarhova, vendarle ni zapustilo vznemirjenega, otožnega obraza! Nisem še vedel, ali naj si čestitam na uspehu svoje pridige, ko se je Tarhov mahoma dvignil, mi stisnil obe roke in druzeto sprogovoril: "Hvala, hvala. Vsekakor imaš prav... čeprav bi bilo po drugi strani mogoče pripomniti... Ker, kaj pa je pravzaprav tvoj slavljeni Baburin? Pošten topoglavec — in nič drugega. Ti ga veličaš, z republikancem — a je navadno — strašilo! Uh! Zdaj veš, kaj je! Ves njegov republikanizem sestoji v tem, da nima nikjer obstanka."
"A! Tako torej sodiš! Strašinjegovi glavi — edinole občutek lastne vrednosti."

"Saj to pa je tudi edina — poštena stvar," sem mu segel v besedo. "Toda dovoli mi vprašanje, kdaj si ga utegnil tako pretehtati? Saj ga menda ne poznaš? Ali pa ga opisuješ... z Muzinimi besedami?"

Tarhov je skomizgnil z ramo.

"Midva z Muzo... se nisva pogovarjala o njem. — Poslušaj," je dodal z nestrpnim premikom vsega telesa, "poslušaj: 'če je Baburin taka plemenita in poštena narava — narava — kako neki potlej ne vidi, da Muza — ni zanj? — Eno iz dvojega: ali morebiti izvaja nad njo nekakšno nasilje v imenu hvaležnosti ali ka-li... in tedaj, kam naj se dene njegova poštenost? — Ali pa tega ne razume... in potem — kako naj bi ga človek ne imenoval topoglavca?'"

Hotel sem že nekaj ugovarjati — a Tarhov me je spet prijel za roke in vnovič spregovoril s hlastnim glasom: "Sicer pa... vsekakor... saj priznam, prav imaš, tisočkrat prav... Pravi prijatelj si mi... a zdaj me pušči, prosim te."

Ostrmel sem.
"Tebe naj pustim?"

"Da. No, le pogledj, doobra moram premisliti o vsem, kar si mi pravkar povedal... Ne dvomim, da imaš prav... a zdaj me pušči!"

"Tako si vznemirjen..." sem začel.
"Vznemirjen?" Tarhov se je zasmejal, a se takoj premagal. "Da; kajpak. Kako pa drugače? Saj sam praviš: to ni šala. Da; o tem je treba premisliti... na samem." Še naprej mi je stiskal roke. "Pozdravljen, dragec, pozdravljen!"

"Pozdravljen," sem ponovil. "Zbogom, dragi!" Ko sem odhajal, sem se zadnjikrat ozrl po Tarhovu. Videti je bil zadovoljen. S čim? Nemara s tem, da sem mu kot zvest prijatelj in tovariš nakazal nevarnost na poti, na katero je postavil nogo — ali s tem, da odhajam? Kar se da raznolike misli so se mi vrtinčile po glavi ves dan prav do večera — prav do trenutka, ko sem stopil v hišo, ki sta jo imela najeto Punin in Baburin, zakaj še isti dan sem odšel k njima. Moram priznati, da mi je nekaj besed Tarhova leglo na dušo... brnele so mi v ušesih... In prav zares, kaj Baburin... kaj ne vidi, da ona ni zanj?

LOUIS ADAMIC

by CAROLE ROGEL, Member of Lodge 173 AFU

(Continuation)

During the Second World War, he wrote "My Native Land," which created international controversy and opposition to the Mihailovich and Jugoslav government in exile. He watched the reconstruction of his native land with great interest. Perhaps this Tito, the new leader of the Yugoslav peoples, would help make his "native land" what he always hoped it would be. In the meantime he wrote "Dinner at the White House," which was the story of his dinner with President Roosevelt and Winston Churchill.

In 1949, Louis Adamic, not knowing it, made his final trip to Yugoslavia. He had intentions of going to Russia, but he wasn't able to obtain a passport. In Yugoslavia he acquired great knowledge of Tito, his associates, Russia, and the Kremlin. The outcome was his greatest book, "The Eagle and the Roots." It is a brilliant account of the Yugoslav Revolution, the Second World War, and a biography of Marshall Tito. The Eagle is Tito, and the Roots are extensions of Russia, which were broken in the Comintern Split. Adamic was a staunch supporter of Tito both during and after the War, and because of this Elizabeth Bentley testified that Louis Adamic was involved in the Communist underground. (Due to recent confessions and a book written by Marvey Matousow, it has been said that Elizabeth Bentley, too, falsely testified before the Senate Investigating Committees. This leaves Louis Adamic entirely free from such accusations.) Adamic was very disturbed at this, and says so here:

"In America, for better or for worse, I had become a political maverick, constantly on the prowl for ideas, movements and men like Barth, Schweitzer, Matthiessen, Northrop, Tillich, Nehru, Haldane... As I've said, I think I know a thing or two about Marxism, but I wouldn't like to have anyone call me a Marxian."

"...If the Un-American Activities committee wanted me, let them subpoena me anytime they wish. I had my answer, which I could give them under oath all figured out... If you mean whether I am a member of the CPUSA of any CP outfit anywhere, my answer is no—"

Before completing his last book "The Eagle and the Roots," Adamic was mysteriously killed. His body was found in his New Jersey farm house. Rags soaked in fuel oil surrounded the farm and most of it had been set afire. On a table a typewriter containing a single sheet of paper on which these four words had been written: "Now is the time..."

Many believed that Adamic took his own life, but various obstacles stand in the way of this belief.

"Consider this. Would a man who has but $4,000 insurance on a $20,000 house deliberately set fire to it?" Would he then, run into the house type a few words on his typewriter, scatter the manuscript he had been writing, run upstairs, lie down, shoot himself in the head with a .22 caliber Mossberg rifle, and finally after he had done this, wipe off the finger prints, and lay the rifle across his knees? Impossible! Many still believe it was suicide, but there are those who think the fact that he was threatened on numerous occasions had something to do with it. One time a Cominform agent warned him about praising Tito. Still another time a Communist agent warned:

"You are a traitor to the working people. There will be a bad ending for you."

This mystery has never been solved, and many have forgotten it even occurred. But the people will never forget that manner of man who saw into the future and fully understood the American social phenomena. He, who studied the American character and had a knack for finding it. He was an extraordinarily intelligent peasant—a peasant turned publicist; the combination was quite unique, as was unique the position he held in American letters. He attempted to evaluate America in terms of immigrants and the varied racial factors. He was peculiarly fitted for this type of work.

Finally, I shall summarize his own outstanding character. He was frank, and boyish in appearance, looking younger than his years. A type of person who bought a bag of apples and ate them walking down New York's Fifth Avenue. He was... "honest as sunlight, wholly selfless, contemptuous of wealth and fame, a hater of cruelty and exploitation and shame, a lover of reason and justice and of humanity."

He always considered himself a peasant... an immigrant, one of the many who contributed to the unwritten chapter on Ellis Island in history books. But, should not this chapter be written? He felt that it should be, and it was for this he worked all his life, to and for those who came to American by way of Ellis Island. They were his people, and he was theirs, but they were considered a minority, though there were 60,000,000 of them. It is for them he lived and... died... and they shall remember him... forever... ever...
