

Carica Katarina

Zgodovinski roman

Povsod so se razlegali zvoki godbe in petja, — po vrtnih kotičkih so šepetali zaljubljeni pari in staro drevo je začudeno majalo s svojimi vejami, ker se mu ti poljubi, ki jih je videlo, ni so dopadli.

Toda tam nista bila Vladimir in Dora.

Ona dva se nista poljubljala tukaj.

Sedela sta v bližini odra in napeto pričakovala prihoda ciganske kraljice.

Nista dolgo čakala.

Kraljica se je že bližala.

Stopala je z Danyjem in čeprav Vladimir in Dora nista mogla videti njenega obličja, ker je bilo zastrto z gosto, belo tancico, ju je vendar zadivila njena prekrasna in vitka postava.

Gostje so se tudi zbrali okrog odra.

Okrog odra so postavili klopi in stole in kdor ni več dobil sedeža, je moral stati.

Cigani zaigrajo neko turbano melodijo.

Ciganska kraljica začne plešati.

Se vedno je imela na obrazu tancico, a to je le še povečala dražest njenega plesa.

Neki bogati svinjerejec iz Oršove je sicer dejal, da pomeni to kupiti svinjo v vreči, ker da je vedno sumljiva kupčija, če se blago ne vidi. Zato je trdil, da si lahko misli o cigankinem obrazu karkoli hoče, če ne bo odstranila svoje tancice.

Dejal je, da je deklica morda celo grda.

Cigani so lopovi in goljufi — Morda hočejo samo zaslužiti, ko so tako lagali o lepoti svoje kraljice.

Godba je igrala vedno hitrejšo.

Postajala je vedno bolj ognje-vita, strastna in ko je ples dosegel vrhunec, godba nenadoma utihne — in v tem trenutku strga plesalka tancico z obraza.

Njen ples je bil resnično izreden, lep, dražesten in graciozen, od vseh navzočih sta mogla to razsoditi le Vladimir in njegova mlada soproga.

Toda kdo bo sedaj opisal, kako je njena lepota delovala na prebivalce Oršove?

Povedati moramo le to, da so v tem trenutku onemeli tudi najhujši pijanci, ki so najhujši zabavljali — skoraj slovesna tišina je zavladala na vrtu.

Slišal se je samo polglasni krik, ki se je nehote izvil Vladimirju iz prs.

V tem trenutku namreč, ko je ciganka pokazala svoj obraz, je naenkrat prijel Vladimir Doro za roko, jo močno stisnil in tako izdal svoje razburjenje ki pa ga je Dora pripisovala njegovemu presenečenju.

Toda Vladimir je bil presenečen radi neke druge stvari. Dora je skoraj obžalovala, da je ciganka prišla in da jo je Vladimir videl.

V njenem srcu se je že zbudila ljubosumnost.

Moška srca so nestalna, Vladimir se lahko zaljubi in v ciganko na dan same svatbe.

Toda mladi zdravnik je bil presenečen in zadivljen iz popolnoma drugih vzrokov, kakor pa je Dora mislila.

Ljudje začnejo navdušeno ploskati.

Takoj so jo obkrožili najboga-tejši oršovski meščani, — vsak se je trudil, da ji dvoriti.

Toda v tej zmešnjavi stopi mladi mož k svojemu tistu, načelniku Nikiti in ga pokliče na stran.

— Oče, eno besedo!

— Je že dobro, to mi boš pozneje povedal, — sedaj moram k ciganki — tudi jaz ji moram povedati nekaj laskavih besed!

— Poslušaj me, oče — stvar je važna — sporočiti ti moram novico, ki te bo zelo presenetila.

— Poslušaj, Vladimir, o doti mi ne govori, — kar sem ti dal, sem ti dal, nobene besede nočem več o tem slišati!

— Saj vendar ne gre za doto, — čeprav gre za denar! Toda ne samo za denar — nadaljuje Vladimir razburjeno, — temveč morda za veliko in lepo karijero, ki se mi nudi!

— Za denar gre? — Za karijero? — Če je tako, potem govori, — za to imam vedno časa!

— Oče, — reče Vladimir in potegne svojega tašta na stran, — ali se spominjaš pisma, ki je zjutraj prispelo iz Petrograda? Ali se spominjaš dopisa petrografskega ministerstva?

Načelnik si obriše z robcem svoje znojno čelo, ker je preveč pil, kakor pa je mogel prenesti. Obraz mu je žarel.

— Pismo, — ministrsko pismo, — da, da, prav imaš, — o no pismo, v katerem je bila slika — slika one žene!

Ali ni zapisano v onem pismu, da moramo poslati v Petrograd osebo, ki je podobna sliki, če jo najdemo?

— Da, tako je oče! Razen tega pa je v pismu omenjeno, da uradnik, ki bi se mu to posrečilo, ne bo dobil samo visoke nagrade.

— Že smo jo našli!

— Našli? — Neumnost!

— Oče, ali je še lahko kje večja sličnost, kakor pa je sličnost med to lepo cigansko kraljico in sliko, ki so nam jo poslali iz Petrograda?

Načelnik ga presenečeno pogleda.

— Mladenič, če bi bilo to res, — to bi bila sreča!

Vladimir potegne sliko iz žepa.

— Oče, tu je slika, — reče on, — pogled jo! Ali lahko najdeš bolj podobno ženo?

TAMBURITZA ON BARN DANCE HOUR

The tamburitza orchestra of St. Edwards University, Austin, Texas, will appear Saturday, April 10 on the National Barn Dance program which is presented on a coast to coast network at 9 p. m. and heard over station WGAR in Cleveland. Featured will be Yugoslav folk songs.

The tamburitza orchestra, composed of Slovene and Croatian students at the University, is on a concert tour through Pennsylvania towns. They appear regularly on Texas radio stations and are acclaimed as the best tamburitza unit in the country. Later in the month they plan to give a concert at Notre Dame University, South Bend, Indiana and in Ohio towns and cities.

Anna P. Krasna:

So What Should We Do?

Mrakar, Alich, and Jartz presented opinions on a vital question or problem of our adaptability in America, our culture, our nationalistic feelings, our importance or nonimportance in the American scene. Very interesting. I enjoyed the straightforwardness of their expressions. Mrakar thinks our world isolated, narrow, without the ability of adapting itself in this new world. To him, our culture is a more or less worthless bric-a-brac, which we keep about in our new home for the same reason as we keep on singing our "nostalgic" Slovene songs... dead sentiments. He feels we need to fuse, whatever good we might have in us, with America, with the workers' movements because we are workers. Straight talk.

Alich takes the floor, and he speaks for the Slovene that is alive, active, doing things instead of lazying away his leisure time in his new world. He considers the Slovene a quite natural fellow, an individual trying, as everybody else, to find his niche in this supposedly cultured and advancing world of today. Very level-headed opinion.

Jartz is really annoyed by the idea that the Slovenes failed to adapt themselves—they are still here, are they not? Well... And our culture to him is as good as any on earth—culture is about the same the World over. Revolutionary trend in us is pretty strong, we stand by the banner of right and justice in any strike, we are ever ready to march ahead with the progress and social development. Red enough, others aren't even as good really in many respects! Bravo, Jartz! Slovenska kri tu zares ne fal!

At a closer analysis of all points given, however, one finds that there is some truth in the statements of all three young men—we have fine qualities, we have weak spots; we could have attained more, far more culturally and otherwise, but the fact remains that we did not, so what should we do? Personally, I don't think much more will be done. Our fine old-timers have done as much as they thought was expected of them. They have built benefit organizations to protect themselves in time of need; they worked hard to spread the gospel of socialism, and brotherhood, and the dare-some idea of free-thought among Slovenes in America; they have constructed an "arty little Ljubljana" in Cleveland. All of which, of course, proves that the immigrant Slovene was able to adapt himself to the new world in his own way; he grasped the idea as well as opportunity of greater freedom of thought

Yugoslav Art School Pupils Surprise With Progress In Portraits, Scenery

The exhibition of the works of the pupils of the Yugoslav School of Modern Art, held Saturday and Sunday at the St. Clair National Home surprised even the most enthusiastic boosters of the School. The progress noted from the last exhibition a year ago was almost unbelievable. Its director, H. Gregory Prusheck is to be commended for his success with the students.

A year ago the artists still stuck to scenery and still-lives. Now they blossomed out with a few portraits; their still lifes and pastorals had real feeling and expression, none of the crudeness one would expect from young students.

Sylvia Filipic had a painting of "The World after a Drunk"—a drunk, precariously balancing himself on the street and everything around him going in a whirl.

Joe Puntar will turn into a real stream-line artist. His pictures of locomotives, factories and aeroplanes were impressive.

Angela Mikus had real thought in her "Life and Death"—a slowly dying out candle, a half apple and a skull.

Mariann Prusheck, daughter of the director, is inheriting her father's love of blue and his expression of scenes. Her Ohio Village showed that.

Anne Pengov had a portrait, Caroline Jarina a cat and John Kapelj a praying Indian, all of which stood out in the rich exhibition.

Space is too short to mention in detail all the credit due the industrious and talented pupils. All deserve credit and recognition. Among those who exhibited were: Stanley Slejko, E. Stefanic, Anton Puntar, A. Mikus, A. Pengov, Joe Hrvatin, J. Smole, O. Okorn, B. Petrich, E. Tekautz, F. Peternel and Frank Glazar.

Strugglers Mark 10th Anniversary With Impressive Program, Tomorrow

All roads lead to the Northeast section of the Slovene Metropolis to that so-much-heard-of community better known as Collinwood, now a part of Cleveland proper. It was in this community and in the Slovene Workmen's Home that the Strugglers, one of the leading English-speaking lodges in the SNPJ was organized. When they were first organized the going was hard but they succeeded. During the ten years of their existence they sponsored many out-of-town bus trips and were constantly seen wherever the SNPJ or some other organization sponsored youth movements; it was this type of friendly cooperation that has made the Strugglers what they are today. Each year, beginning with the first anniversary celebration, an impressive anniversary program was presented and capacity crowds attended. This year the Strugglers will again celebrate on Saturday and Sunday, April 3 and 4.

Saturday evening is dedicated to our out-of-town friends and followers with a huge dance in the lower hall of the Workmen's Home. Jackie Zore and his orchestra will entertain the dancers until midnight; after then we are not responsible for what happens. Our guests will be well taken care of. Johnny Aynik, the Beacon's Romeo, is promoting his own version of "Stags at Dawn" and Mr. Lampe is furnishing the scenery, all of which is to take place on Wah-Hoo Drive. This event will be held strictly for our out-of-town guests. Admission for the dance at the hall will be only 35c.

Sunday, April 4 will be the big day when at 2:30 p. m. the curtain of the Workmen's Home will unfold on an elaborate vaudeville program. Anne Strauss will extend the Strugglers' welcome to all present. The speakers for this celebration will be our own Struggler member and the only Slovene Common Pleas Judge in America Judge Frank J. Lausche. The other speaker will be Cleveland's Safety Director, the former G. man, Elliot Ness. Director Ness has been a familiar figure ever since his venture as Safety Director but this will be the first time you will be able to hear and see him in person. The program will be quite varied and entirely new. Heading the bill will be the personal appearance of our ever popular song birds Josephine Lausche and Mary Udovich duet. They will be accompanied by Dr. Wm. J. Lausche at the piano. Dr. Lausche is also a Struggler member. This act will be dedicated to the Slovene audience as they will sing only Slovene songs. Another attraction will be the personal appearance of Billy Ross known as the Hilly Billy Bill. Young Mr. Ross has the distinction of playing before some of the leading night clubs in the city. Joe Sedlon, Cleveland ace accordionist, will be on hand to render your favorite selections. Then come twelve acts of prize winning vaudeville entertainment through the courtesy of Burt's Optical Co. These are 12 acts each and everyone of them proclaimed a prize winner on Burt's weekly radio broadcasts a variety of fun, music and dancing will be featured with their own master of ceremonies Little Joe.

The biggest laugh thrill of the day will be presented by Andy Mazur comedian delux.

The admission for this all-star vaudeville show will be only 50c and the same ticket will admit you to the dance in the evening. The dance music for the evening will be furnished by the Columbians playing in the upper hall and Louis Simoncic and his former Struggler Harmony Aces in the lower hall. Admission to the dance only will be 35c. Immediately following the presentation, supper will be served in the lower hall.

For the biggest pre-convention entertainment at these prices we again ask you don't miss the Strugglers' Tenth Anniversary Saturday and Sunday, April 3 and 4... We welcome each and everyone of you and guarantee you all a good time.

Tickets can be obtained from any member of the team. — Club reporter.

Pro Ball Calls Boys From I-L Naborhood

Neighborhood sports lovers will miss familiar faces soon when some of the boys answer the call of minor league baseball clubs.

Wally Pavicich, former Fisher Foods luminary, is in Little Rock, Ark., training for an infield berth with the Southern League. The former Inter-Lodge player is the property of the Boston Red Sox.

Mickey Cesnovar, Carroll U flash, who quit the pro game last year to continue in school, plans to return to Florida to win a berth in the Piedmont League. Detroit Tigers hold his contract.

Adolph Jalen and Boogey Dolence plan to play ball in the Ohio State League. Both were until now engaged in winning the I - L basketball championship. Jalen manages the Clairwoods and Dolence is a vital cog in the St. Josephs machine.

CLAIRWOODS RALLY, BUT LOSE HEART BREAKER TO JOES, 19-17

Collinwood has its due at last—the KSKJ St. Josephs won the Inter-Lodge basketball championship Wednesday when they defeated the SDZ Clairwoods in the second straight game of the series. The score was 19 to 17.

The score doesn't indicate the battle the Joes had to show in order to fight back a surging, torrid rally staged by the Clairwoods in the second half. It had the fans on edge, girls prayed with clasped hands everytime someone threw for the bucket, "no, no," or "yes, yes, have it go in". The rally had the Joes worried plenty, they called for time out every few minutes, to see what could be done to break the slaughter that was slowly slicing their lead into dangerous proximity to the Clairwood figures.

Don't think that the rally did not have the Joes scared—why in the second half they went into the game with a 16 to 9 lead and with two minutes of the game left the score stood 18 to 17 in their favor. They played onrushing, furious, fast ball; every time anyone had the ball three men of the opposing team were bottling him up, so he couldn't pass, dribble or shoot. Players rolled over the floor, slid across it, smeared each other, the referees' whistles blew loud and furious, the ball bounced up and around the hoop, but missed going in—time was called—45 seconds to go—the game belonged to the team which would get the ball on the tip off. The Clairwoods nabbed the ball, they threw it at the hoop, it bounced around... and fell out... Olyszewski was fouled. He threw in the point and that saved the Joes from defeat in case the Clairwoods made a bucket. The Clairwoods had the ball, but missed chances because they shot from a distance or from unfavorable angles; they were afraid to lose time by working the ball into favorable spots. The game ended, with the Kay Jays ahead 19 to 17.

The first half made it appear that the game would be a repetition of last week's run away for the Joes. The Joes played accurate ball and soon were ahead 9 to 3. At the half they were leading 16 to 9. But the second half showed a different fighting team on the field.

Olyszewski was easily the star of the series. His steady influence and accurate pass work saved numerous situations for the Joes.

The game Wednesday had a festive note in the appearance of the colorfully garbed St. Joseph's band. After the game Joe Birk showed his good will to the boys by giving them a party at his cafe, 6220 St. Clair avenue. Free drinks added to the spirit of the Joe's celebration.

One of the largest crowds ever to witness an Inter-Lodge game was on hand to see the thriller.
